Driving from your house, the music's off, there's not a sound
Somehow I got lost and ended up in Fredricktown
You seem to have a good time when you're playing with my head
Like invite me to your house and when I get there go to bed
Like you don't even want me around
If I had the force I'd use it to give you a kiss
But that's not what its for and I know Yoda would be pissed
I got my hopes up so high only to be crushed again
Cause you said you got upset because you saw your old boyfriend
You'll never be mine no matter how my friends insist
I wish I had what it take to make you Want this
I would never let you slip away
I met you in September and its been so very long
I know that I am ugly but why do you lead me on
You said I'll see you later but what I really fear
Is later's not tommorow and I'll see you in a year
And I don't think that my heart is that strong
I never seem to have the nerve to say it to your face
It's never the right time and almost never the right place
I have no other way but to do it in this song
Because I'm in love with you and have been for so long
And I fall a little harder every time I see your face
I wish I had what it takes to make you Want this
I would never let you slip away
