Well you can take away my eyes
But I can still see the truth
Of the Red-Influence, Politics and Brainwashing of the Youth
You can take away my ears
But I can still hear every lie
That's being fed to our people
Now hear our battlecry

You can't mold me
I'm not clay
I am living for the day
For justice and our people to be free

You can't tell us how to live
For our lives we will all give
To live in our own country that was built for you and
Me

You can take away my hands
But my grip still won't let go
Of the freshest seeds of freedom
To be planted so they'll grow

You can take away my legs
But I will always stand tall
To defend the land in which I was born
For I shall never fall

You can't mold me
I'm not clay
I am living for the day
For justice and our people to be free

You can't tell us how to live
For our lives we will all give
To live in our own country that was built for you and
Me

You can take away my freedom
But you will never take my pride

Cause a fire burns within me too strong to ever die

You can take away my life
But you can never take my mind
Cause they're are soldiers to replace me when I'm gone
And left behind

You can't mold me
I'm not clay
I am living for the day
For justice and our people to be free

You can't tell us how to live
For our lives we will all give
To live in our own country that was built for you and
