Take me to Wai'ki'ki
And dance beneath the blistering sun.
Our love's been frozen by the northern sky
It's swallows everyone.
I laugh just like my mother did,
Throw stones just like my father did.
And they believed in love,
Yes they believed in love.

They say Daedalus
Taped his own wings on
And continued to
Fly towards the sun
As his father cried
"They will come undone,"
It's when he took the plunge
It's when he took the plunge.

With warm hands
And warmer thoughts
We dance just like our parents did
With one arm wrapped around my hip
We soar towards the sun.

They say Daedalus
Taped his own wings on
And continued to
Fly towards the sun
As his father cried
"They will come undone,"
It's when he took the plunge
It's when he took the plunge.

Taped his own wings on.
