So long

It feels like you're a 1000 miles away
And getting further with each day
Every time i look behind your eyes
Another tiny piece of me dies

I want it to be how it used to be
I want it to feel how it...
I want to see what i used to see
And i want in believe in something
Something real
Real

It's so remote

A weight so heavy it could snap your joints
The distance between two points

I want it to be how it used to be
I want it to feel how it used to feel
I want to see what i used to see in you
And i want to believe - i just want to believe
In something real - anything real
One thing real - there's gotta be one thing real

It's so remote

A weight so heavy it could snap your joints
The distance between two points
