It's not so long until the harvest comes and everybody brings it home
We could sit down and laugh about all that work
We can sing a song about a new day to come

I've walked up and down so many wrong roads
And I've had a long and lonely time
But I know that I'll be layin' back and restin' my mind
When I get out to the end of the line
Oh yes I will

I'm restless and weary and my flesh is weak and I've bathed in a river of sin
But I think it's gonna rain down and wash us clean
We could throw it all away and start over again

I've walked up and down so many wrong roads
And I've had a long and lonely time
But I know that I'll be layin' back and restin' my mind
When I get out to the end of the line
When I get out to the end of the line

I've walked up and down so many wrong roads
And I've had a long and lonely time
But I know that I'll be layin' back and restin' my mind
When I get out to the end of the line
Yes I know I'm gonna be layin' back and restin' my mind
When I get out to the end of the line
When I get out to the end of the line
