"Walk a little closer," she said
Underneath her breath
"Everything will be okay
Everything," she said

But I don't think she can take that chance
There's been a lot of complications
Have been amassed through this romance
And I don't think we can take that chance

"Always keep your chin up," she said
Then slapped it to the left
"Everything is for the best"
Then slapped it to the left

But I don't think she can take that chance
There's been a lot of complications
Have been amassed through this romance
And I don't think we can take that chance

No I don't think she can take that chance
There's been a lot of complications
Have been amassed through this romance
And I don't think we can take that chance
