"Who Can Compare"

You drew the lines of where the sea would meet the shore
The sky would meet the floor
Who can compare?
You showed the sun just when to pass the time to night
And when to come back bright
Who can compare?

Needer of nothing and giver of all
Every living thing survives
By the strength Your boundless love supplies
Lord of power beyond compare
The universe sits in Your hands
And eternity is where you stand

You tell the rain clouds when to hold and when to bleed
To satisfy our need
Who can compare?
You made the countless stars and set them into place
To fill the void of space
Who can compare?
