They took the beat away, replaced it with machines
They took the words away, and threw 'em on a screen
They turned the switches on, and handed us the phones
They blasted out our ears with endless monotonous

Can you feel it, can you feel it
From a million miles away
Can you hear it, can you hear it
Gettin' louder every day
Give the music back
Give the music back
Give the music back, before it's gone
Give the music back
Give the music back
Put the music back into the song

They drove the blues away, and banished Rock 'n Roll
They cut away the heart, and sacrificed the soul
They closed the disco's down, and shut off MTV
They locked the music up, and threw away the key

Can you feel it, Can you feel it
From a million miles away
Can you hear it, can you hear it
Gettin' Louder every day
Give the music back
Give the music back
Give the music back, Before it's gone
Give the music back
Give the music back
Put the music back into the song

And now a silence fills the room where once we sang
And all it's quiet where the chimes of freedom rang
Somewhere a pirateship is crashing through the waves
Sending a signal out, a battle to the grave

Give the music back
Give the music back
Give the music back, Before it's gone

Give the music back
Give the music back
Put the music back where it belongs

Give the music back (Ohh give it back)
Give the music back (Ohh give it back)
Give the music back, Before it's gone
Give the music back
Give the music back
Put the music back into the song
Before it's gone
