The castle fell to cannons
In a war long before
You were ever born
At least that's what they say

You couldn't believe it
They brought their heavy words down like a hammer
And beat your heart to life

You were never the same again
Now

[Chorus:]

We drift through the forest
We wander the landscape
We thunder and lightning
We rumble and we scrape
In search of a story
Like our grandfathers tell
So we've come from the valley
To pound your town to hell

Cut down near the ruins
Where they lay still today
You will never know
But that's not your concern

The spirit you hear it
You mount your suicide machine
With a kick you
Bring the beast to life

This was never gonna end well
'Cause

[Chorus]
