I've been calling you to go to the city I've been watching you every day Now I'm paying for a one way ticket for a ship that sails the opposite way

And you laugh and you cry and you live and you die cause you don't really know who you are all alone in this world orphan boy, orphan girl cause you don't really know who you are

Run baby run my hands release you baby run baby run just as fast as you can run till your legs lead your heart to the real truth you're my daughter, my son, so run baby run baby run

Hear me laughing as you run from your calling see me crying, see me crying in the storms that rage one way or another, you will be going to obey is such an easier way
