Count the stars with our eyes
I feel kind of lost
Like a ship capsized while I was in the middle of the mast
And I couldn't come down
Frozen in the rain

Can't keep looking for signs
To show me something
That it's going alright
I feel like I'm obsessed
Like I don't even see
If it's tearing at the seams

Something tells me that I should keep my eyes closed
And maybe I'll wake up to find I haven't fallen for a lie

I can't imagine a world without the stars
If everything's beautiful now that's where we are
And I'll know as I take in every breath
So far every time that I feel alive that's where you are

Counting on everything now
This town is so cold
We've got the change to get us there
If the scenery left us somehow, and we just fell back,
Would the meaning get clearer?

Something tells me that I should keep my eyes closed
And maybe I'll wake up to find I haven't fallen for a lie

I can't imagine a world without the stars
If everything's beautiful now that's where we are
And I'll know as I take in every breath
So far every time that I feel alive that's where you are
