I stumble down a stairway made from shards of glass, it's all a trap "You shall not pass!"
The walls are tainted I can taste my sin
The scent is poison I won't let this in

I must escape this sober cell
their diamond eyes are glazed in hell
with white smiles they speak of reverence whilst she escapes with subtle silence

Death stared into their souls Covered their eyes turned them to stone Torn down the walls they call home
Their eyes bleed black as glory taints their souls

I must escape this sober cell
with white smiles they speak of reverence
whilst she escapes with subtle silence
