looking back now i see how far i've gone it's been a while now for only one song past intentions i never ever meant to deal with now well just by looking around i don't think that i'll ever come down well you know right now that i am trying to change but believe now i'll try to change everything you know that i could rearrange and it gets harder and harder now well you know i want to change the past past intentions i never ever meant to deal with just by looking around well you know i tried so hard to change right now well just by looking around well i don't think that i'll ever come down all the way
