"Words"

When everything has been said and done and all my thoughts have all been sung will we spark the fire that ignites your soul turn a blackened heart into a prism of hope when everything is said and done are these words just another song?
And now that you know all my misery are you a fist in the air or are you apathetic to me set on a path of humility the destination insanity
and Im a poster boy for everything gone wrong when judgement brings me down to my knees and Im so consumed in what you think of me it feels like Im drowning in a sea of in-security
