Reasons are fading away as we turn back,
There'll be no fight because
What we have is nothing and Anything will beat it out of spectacularity

Why don't we think where we belong and
We face the world's been sold?
Don't turn around
And who are we producing for to tie
Our hands with the chains of mass- consumption?

We're still having nothing but images and prices,
Categorised labels to be sold to somebody else,
Why don't we think where we belong
And we face the world's been sold?
Don't turn around. Think, where do we belong?
