Rain is pouring down soaking through my skin
Rain is pouring down soaking through my skin

I came to see you but you couldn't come out to play
I came to see you but you keep on turning me away
I came to see you
I came to see you

My fist is blue from pounding on your door
There's no reply you don't answer anymore
So through the steam drenched window and my tears of pain
Sweating exposed flesh is all my eyes retain Rain is pouring down chilling all my bones

But all that fills my ears is your haunting moans
But all that fills my ears is your haunting moans

In through the out door
Inside you keep it warm
My only ally is the winter storm
And at the moment of total ecstasy
I look into your eyes then set you free

Fluids jointing flowing into one
Fluids jointing flowing into one

One color red
