"A Perfect World"

Listen to me man, let's take a walk,
I just have to scream out how happy I am.
I see the world's different from what it was.
All grief is gone now, joy's come at last

The war is a series, a TV show,
and soldiers are pop stars, fighting for Oscars.
I've seen Bush kissing Osama's cheek,
so christians and arabs can joyfully meet.

You may think this place has just gone nuts.
It's just because you live in a perfect world.

Every kid looks happy in the ex-third world,
'cause their stomachs are full, and oppression's gone.
Revolution is over 'cause we all believed,
and Marcos drinks whisky instead of tears.

We both think this place has just gone nuts.
It's just because we live in a perfect world.
