Oh... When will we open our eyes
And finally discover
We are united by one blood?
When will we realize
We're sisters and brothers
And what the world needs now is love?

There's a dreamer inside
Each one of us
Who wants to believe...

There is still a dream to believe in,
There is still a Hope after hope is gone.
We could be the Father's hands
And give peace a chance;
And show the world
There is still a dream. (ohh)

(Aah) A brother down on his luck
Fallen to chances...
We could pick the brother up.
A sister down on her knees
Praying for answers.
Why don't you show the sister love?

All over the world
Life is unjust,
But I do believe, believe...

There is still a dream to believe in,
There is still a Hope after hope is gone.
We could be the Father's hands,
And give peace a chance;
And show the world
There is still a dream.

And everyone needs one,
'Cause no one is freed from
The worries of life that drag us down.
If you can't make it,
My hands can take it
We'll stand together and pray!

There is still a dream to believe in,
There is still a Hope after hope is gone.
We could be the Father's hands,
And give peace a chance;
And show the world (to show the world)...
There is still a dream to believe in,
There is still a Hope after hope is gone.
We could be the Father's hands,
And give peace a chance...
And show the world (whoa-oh) (to show the world)
There is still a dream. (There's still a dream.)
There is still a dream. (oh)
