desperation is replaced by the busy-ness of good intentions now the path i'm left to face is the length of time i'm treading water i've been cracked enough to break bruised reduced enough to scatter as i step into this place a kniofe the rose a sparrow come together alone with you amongst aoll the weather im alone with you

there is nothing better on the brink of fading heart another day i leave forgotten trying to keep up staying sharp lately feel the blunt abandoned

im alone with you
amongst all the weather
im alone with you
for there is, for there is no other for there is no other there is no other
