You sat down next to me, like poetry to wine
Our window looked upon a yellow neon sign
I took your hand while you decided what to do
The only kiss I ever miss, I shared with you

The other cities hold
A memory still of a place
But when I dream of London
I can only see your face

I want you or no one
No one else will do
You, or no one
'Cause no one is the only one
To fill the empty space I hold for you

You simplified me down to slogans on the wall
I took offense but you were right about them all
My friends are telling me I shouldn't waste my time
But I can't concentrate until I make you mine

I'm drawing cards and making wishes
Down by the well
Who would've known
I'd lose myself in the old hotel?

I want you or no one
No one else for me
Oh, you or no one
'Cause no one else is strong enough
To slow me down in time to set me free

I want you or no one
No one else is fine
Oh, you or no one
No one is the only one
To fill me up, until I make you mine
