I been wasting my days good and reckless and true I have danced in the dark at the edge of the water swinging my hips at the black and the blue and when you die will you be surrounded by friends will they pray for a heaven out loud a hope that somehow they will see you again and at the end of the day knowing not what it means will you stand in the ashes building a flame for the rest of your dreams

And would you love could you love
to be ordinary
I know its hard but i can't see you trying
and would you love could you love
to be ordinary
cause I can't see you tryin now and I see strangers at war I see strangers at peace still I hang my head in confusion its always a choice thats been harder for me and at the end of the day knowing not what it means will you stand in the ashes building a flame for the rest

to be ordinary
I know its hard but I can't see you trying
to be ordinary
no I can't see you trying now there's nobody left to hear me I wish you could hear me now there's nobody left to call because you're not around

to be ordinary
I know its hard but I can't see you trying
to be ordinary
I know its hard but I can't see you trying

to be ordinary
I know its hard but I can't see you trying
to be ordinary
trying when you die will you be surrounded by friends will they pray for a heaven out loud
