In the face of another night of rain
That runs through like a river
At a time when nobody hears my pain
And I might cry forever
I call you and you appear like in a dream
And suddenly the storm is gone

And here beside you is where you'll find me
The arms I long to hold
When I'm left in the cold

And here beside you is where you'll guide me
When I stumble and fall
You are there through it all this must be love

And if sometimes I break like shattered glass
And my heart's all in pieces without a doubt
You'll be there when I ask with the answer
I need nobody else now could protect me like you do
No one like you, I know that's true

I turn to you when darkness comes again
You bring me from the shadows I'm holding on Until the teardrops end to you and you alone
