Greetings from the other side wish you knew we wish you you put up one hell of a fight but there's no one left who lives to tell of your valiant discovery and the glory saved for those who know there's no room here on the other side and no apologies to guide you home it's all over we've waited for much too long hailing from the other side beckoning to come along free your dogma free your right free your will and follow on with your valiant discovery the glory saved for those who know there's no room here on the other side for those who will not do as they're told it's all over and we've waited for much too long afraid to debate it our time has come don't lose sight of zion they cry crazy well they are all wrong we've waited for too long to lose sight of our zion it's not like were never meant for this they led us to believe it's just how it is but...we are...meant for..(this)..remember why you first raised your voice remember why you first showed your face remember why you beat down their door to let them know you would not be ignored we've waited for too long hold out hold on it's what we are meant for.
