and as for love that i denied one time too many she left me at the break of day when i awoke she seemed still spinning in my head but she was gone, the capsule empty and her body dead was all she'd left behind without a last adieu
to start anew we need to be strangers from now on and as for love we need to be strangers from now on and i remember when she came into my life it didn't count who she was or what i was like i never meant to hurt her but she never did her name was love, her bodies infinite and now she is gone, the capsule empty and her body
