Heave another, heave another sigh
We're the last sons Thought our heads had locked Heads have parted ways
So headstrong, we're the last sons
different
We're night and day, still the same
In the garland frame
Though we left a mark upon a cherub face Signs of love, waste it all on the young
different

different
