Woke up this morning at the end of another bottle
I don't know what's really going on
My hands are shaking and my head's reminding me
That last night I must have had some fun
Been here so many times you get used to the pain
But I don't want to play these self-destructive games

Once again I will say
Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change

I'm locked inside another dark day wondering
Just how I'm gonna turn my life around
Throw me a rope something to save me
Cause I'm sailing on a ship that's going down
So lift me off my feet and hang me out to dry
I know I've been around the block
But I'll give it one more try

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change

Today will be the day that I give it up
I just give in and let a brand new life begin

It's getting late and I see the lion's den
I'll be tempted once again
Shining bright like a thousand little lights
All just begging me to come on in for one
It's not gonna kill me

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change

Today will be the day
Today I'm gonna change
