Baby tell me why
You're wearing dark glasses inside
What you trying to hide
Is it another black eye

What you gonna do
Next time he lays his hands on you
Let me tell you the truth
Don't you realize he don't love you

If he don't treat you like a queen
You should be steppin'
It's obvious to me that
He ain't worth it
What's the use of staying
When he hurts you
Baby you should know
He don't deserve you

Tell me what makes a man
Treat his woman so cruel
To me it makes so sense
For you to stand this abuse
Well

Enough is enough
You deserve a love much better
A little joy and laughter
Understanding on a silver platter

If he don't treat you like a queen
You should be steppin'
(You should be steppin' baby)
It's obvious to me (me) that (that)
He ain't worth it
(If he hurt you baby)
What's the use of staying
When he hurts you
(If he hurt you baby)
Baby you should know

(You should know)

He don't (he don't) deserve you
(Deserve you babe)

You can't go on pretending not to see
What everyone knows
Open you eyes
And realize
You're running out of time

There's no joy in pain
What ya gonna gain
He don't feel no shame
(He don't feel no shame no no)
Why is it that you stay
loving this way
It could end your life someday

If you don't know
If you don't know

If he don't treat you like a queen
You should be steppin'
It's obvious to me that
He ain't worth it
(Want you to know, he ain't worth it)
What's the use of staying
(What's the use)
When he hurts you
(You know he hurt you baby, you baby)
Baby you should know
He don't deserve you
(If he don't treat you like a queen, yeah)

If he don't treat you like a queen
You should be steppin'
It's obvious to me that
He ain't worth it
What's the use of staying
When...
