When traveling abroad in the continental style
It's my belief one must attempt to be discreet
And subsequently bear in mind your transient position Allows you a perspective that's unique

And though you'll find your itinerary's a blessing and a curse
Your wanderlust won't let you settle down And you wonder how you ever fathomed that you'd be content
To stay within the city limits of a small Midwestern town

Most vagabonds I've known don't ever want to find the culprit
That remains the object of their long relentless quest The obsession's in the chasing and not the apprehending
The pursuit you see and never the arrest

Without fear or contradiction bon voyage is always hollered
In conjunction with a handkerchief from shore
By a girl that drives a rambler and furthermore is overly
Concerned that she won't see him anymore

Planes and trains and boats and buses Characteristically evoke a common attitude of blue Unless you have a suitcase and a ticket and a passport
And the cargo that they're carrying is you

A foreign affair juxtaposed with a stateside
And domestically approved romantic fancy
Is mysteriously attractive due to circumstances knowing
It will only be parlayed into a memory
