and i will hold you in feathers waiting for death to arrive gold doors the heavens turn me right in to wine hold your child in the light oh you've grown but so have i

meet me down by the river love was made the first time sober eyes open widely come close you know i don't bite cold hands on this neck of mine let me breathe through that pillow case don't stop you're almost there make room in the holiest place never again

last time i write for the ones up above stifle my body in the name of love don't you weep for my soul, oh lord this was your doing it's what had to be done never again last time i write for them never again as long as i know never again last time i write for her

oh my god i've seen you divide
