(S. Phillips)

Come over here, out of the rain
Before you get too wet
Under my umbrella
I promise no regrets
Did you see the lightning
This feels like the right thing
Were you looking for perfection
I'm trying to change your perception
I once was a sailor man
Caught up in a raging storm
The weight of waves came crashing
The angels kept us warm
You think it's all confusing
I think it's just amusing
I can put it all behind me
I don't want to keep losing
Face to face, shoulder to shoulder
Under a big sky skin to skin
In my head, in my mind
I rehearse it over and over again
This could be the last time
Or this could last a lifetime
We were taken by the moonlight
Washed away in the noontide
Did you see the lightning
Did you see the lightning
This feels like the right thing
