Controlling your mind and goin' inside it
They love when they see that you just pretend for everything
You are playing their game and you want fame
But this just a view - something that you wanna see

You are going your way and it feels okay
But you don't know what would happen in the new world order
Everthing that you are dreaming about
Is now just leaving away from your hands

Now you are goin down
Just to find yourself in the mirror of the time
And you know, you know whats right
But everything goes wrong

There's something wrong with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world
Along with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world

You're turing around and changing your ways
You're doing your best, tryin' to be the one who wanted to.
You have your soul and it's guiding you
Through the nevertheless fields of pain
They try to knock you off the line

The eyes are open but the mind is blind
Don't you think you have to help yourself
To do the best you can do
They are lying you about the perfect world but that's way it's gonna be for life

Now, you are goin down,
Just to find yourself in the mirror of the time
And you know, you know what's right,
But everything goes wrong

There's something wrong with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world
Along with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world

Controlling your mind and goin' inside it
They love when they see that you just pretend for everything
You are going your way and it feels okay
But you don't know what would happen today

Now, you are goin' down
Just to find yourself in the mirror of the time
And you know, you know what's right
but everything goes wrong

There's something wrong with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world
Along with you, the way you think
The way you live your life, the way you see the world
