As I pull myself together for the first time in a minute
I think about some of my friends who have left this time, this route
And as I lay me down to sleep for the ten thousandth time in my life
I realize what I've got and what I have to cherish

I remember the days, I remember the place
And I remember your ways and I can still see your happy face
I remember the days, I remember the place
I remember your ways and I can still see the smile on your face

As I pull myself together for the second time in a minute
I think about the times we had rehearsing in Pete's bedroom and his Dad came in real mad
When we're drinking beer and skating at Å„ngskolan Sneaking away, smoking cigarettes, no one could think of death

I remember the days, I remember the place
I remember your ways and I can still see your happy face
I remember the days
I remember your ways and I can still see the smile on
your face

I remember the days, I remember the place
I remember your ways, I can still see the smile on your face
I remember your ways and I still see the smile on your face

I remember, I remember the days, I remember the place
And I remember your ways and I can still see your
happy face
I remember the days, I remember the place
I remember your ways and I can still see the smile on
your face
