Salesman, where you gonna go?
To sell all your of your goods today Salesman, gonna walk along the street, see friends along the way
Well salesman, with your wooden cart that you push along while you walk Hey, salesman, got a little dog whose tail wags when you talk
You always wear a smile, even though you've gotta walk ten miles
Short lifespan, goodtime salesman Yep, yep salesman got it on the street, whether it's hot or cold
It's salesman, well, you work real hard,
Until every part is sold Salesman as the years go by,
People changing every day Hey, salesman 'til the end of time you'll be livin in the same way
You always wear a smile, you love 'em fast and you live wild Short life span, but ain't life grand?

Copper kettles, different kinds of tin
There goes salesman and he's sailing high again He's sailing so high, high, sailing so high...

Salesman where you gonna go to sell all of your goods today
Yup, salesman, gonna walk along the street, see friends along the way Hey, salesman, with your wooden cart that you push
along while you walk
Hey, salesman with your secret goods that you push while you talk
You always wear a smile,
Even though you've gotta walk a hundred ten miles Short life span - but the whole thing's grand Salesman...

Now, well, I tried the one that you put it in and you have to do it manually. But I'd like the one that you just plug it in and it does it all by itself in a real long strand and you cut 'em up. It's easier to do it that way because, well, I put all the stuff in there and it keeps flippin'

out. And I can't get the thing to stick together anything.
Coupled with the fact that I have to stick two of them together to even get on out of it and they always end up lookin' like Lucky Strikes.
