Lately, this world seems kinda strange
As my perception changed
Am I losing the war?
Enemies that only you could see
Or is this empathy?

Tell me how hard would you fight if everything was slipping away
Before you just layed down and died

Night falls, still darkness never comes
Silence forever gone, you just keep dropping bombs
On my inner peace, you could not be more pleased
Where is your sympathy?

Tell me how hard must I fight to keep you from slipping away?
There's nothing left to save

In the battlegrounds, we're burning burning down
In the battlegrounds, we're burning burning down
You're gone x5

Got your gun cocked, now you're firing without thinking
Oh no not you, how could you be mistaken now
Sittin high on your throne, always throwing the stones
And never weighing your own

Tell me how hard must I fight to keep you from slipping
away?
When I've done everything to make this right
There's nothing left to save yea

In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down
In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down

Light of the sun, the damage we've done
This world lingers on, and nobody's won yea
When my oldest game, was the one I betrayed
Oh I'd give anything to take back the day

In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down
In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down
In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down
In the battlegrounds we're burning burning down
You're gone x10
