

Randy "On The Rack"

Visit "On The Rack" on MotoLyrics.com

Realize your just a pawn, you've done it there way since the day that you were born. Put your blinders on, for your own best "son". They keep the leash short so they know whats going on. They claim that this civilized society is almost faultless and perfect. Based on traditions, religion and it seems to be a bad case of intelllect. Laws and rules replace the ability to see and to act and to handle with respect. A society based on limits instead of responsability. I promise myself i want fall back until i thread a rope around their greasy necks. They're keeping me on the rack, cause ive got a slipped disc hurting in my back. Im open to suggestions, discussions, i will listen and observe. Every individual got something to share and to learn. Laws and rules replace the ability to see and to act and to handle with respect. A society based on limits instead of responsability. The price of our freedom is military armaments, but killing and war can never be justified. That primitive way of thinking brought on from hundreds of stupid generations, is something we must leave behind.

Visit Randy page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.