"California II"

On the day yo left I watched your show So I could tell you how it's ending On the day you left I watched you go I didn't know how this was ending
So if you ever come back home from California I'll be waiting at the place we used to meet And they'll be fortunate out there in California if you give them half of what you've done for me
In my head a locked up key You always knew what I was thinking in my head you're everything Because you knew what I was thinking So if you ever come back here
