

Natalia Zuckerman"Home"

Visit "Home" on MotoLyrics.com

when she talks
when she talks
it's barely above a whisper and when she walks when she walks the ground seems to dance beneath her and when she sings when she sings you have no choice but to love her and when she smiled when she smiled

the clouds would part in the sky above her and it looked like something that you'd always known and it would feel just like coming home when she was born

when she was born
the heavens surely missed her for as she lay dying as she lay dying she said there were angels there to receive her she said oh, this looks like something that I've always known she said I feel like coming home maybe this love is all I will ever know and maybe I'll never find my way home and maybe this love is all I will ever know

and maybe I'll never find my way home but if this love is all I will ever know then I have already found my way home
/]

Visit Natalia Zuckerman page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.