Dracula:

I've seen so many sunsets in my life;
I should know everything there is worth knowing.
But since I saw her face
I don't know where I am,
there's no map that can show me where I'm going.
The longer I live the more I wonder if I know anything at all.
If I've ever been in love, I can't recall.

The longer I live the less I'm certain,
that I have all the answers right.
I'd give all my yesterdays to touch the light.

It's hard to make each moment count when you're alone,
maybe that's all I need to know.

The longer I live without her near me,
the longer my empty years will be.
The world will not turn until she turns to me.
