Even the best of friends
Give in sometimes to their darker side
Put up a wall of stubborn pride
Not willing to make amends

Even the best of friends
Betray your trust in a moment of anger
It's so easy to point a finger
That's when it all begins
With even the best of friends

Even the best of friends
Don't always see things eye to eye
Won't always understand just why
But that's when they should try to bend

Even the best of friends
Need to cling to their common ground
Before the hurt starts coming down
And they can't turn around again
Even the best of friends

You and I, we paid so many dues
I still remember those happy, hungry days
Makes me cry 'cause I can't get through to you
What did I do to make you turn away?

Even the best of friends
Have to speak though the truth might sting
Though it's hard it's the loving thing
The only way wounds will mend

Even the best of friends
Need to learn to forgive each other
Take all the faults that true love covers
And just let them go in the wind

Even the best of friends
Even the best of friends
Even the best of friends

Even the best, best of friends

Even the best of friends
Even the best
Even the best, best of friends
