

Anaís Martinez

"Young At Heart"

Visit "Young At Heart" on MotoLyrics.com

I close my eyes, it's on my mind tonight
Tonight
I recognize her hear inside, so tight
So tight

Systems down, a broken crows
The planet shakes, we start to break
The dancer falls, my skin feels cold
The signs are clear, there's no one here

And even when the sun keeps shinning down
It's dark
And even though the world keeps turning round
We've stopped

I'm tripping as the pattern repeats again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come

The brighter day of time and grace
Will light the way for your embrace
We'll open up our tired eye to see
To see

And even when the sun keeps shinning down
It's dark
And even though the world keeps turning round
We've stopped

I'm tripping as the pattern repeats again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come

Listen to the sound of sirens
This is where we break this violent heart
Something good will come

Listen to the sound of sirens
This is where we break this violent heart

Something good will come

It's hard to know when you're out of control
It's hard to say that we'll never get old
Tonight we're all still young at heart

I'm tripping as the pattern repeats again
This time we're trying to pretend
Tonight we're all still young at heart
Something good will come
Something good will come

Listen to the sound of sirens
This is where we break this violent heart

Listen to the sound of sirens
This is where we break this violent heart

Something good will come
Something good will come

Visit Anaís Martinez page on MotoLyrics.com, to get more lyrics and videos.