My little sister
I wanna tell you
I wanna show you
What you're really worth

In the beginning
When you were first made
When you were first formed
Before your birth

The sea and the sky were not enough
The flowers bloom was not enough
The mountains reaching to the sky were not enough

You're beautiful, far more beautiful
Than anything the world will ever know
Keep your eyes on the King
Cherish all of your tomorrows

Daughter
Don't grow up too fast
Let your youth last
Because soon it's gone

Daughter
You're far too precious
To waste your priceless kiss
On just anyone

The Lord has made you sweet and wild
You are Heaven's little child
You're the one whose face has Launched a thousand smiles

You're beautiful, far more beautiful
Than anything the world will ever know
Keep your eyes on the King
Cherish all of your tomorrows

Mother
You're still a pretty girl

Your arms surround the world
With your embrace

Mother
I see your wisdom
Your tears and laughter
In the lines on your lovely face

And your children one by one
Will rise up to call you "blessed"
All of Heaven will applaud
As you enter to your rest

You're beautiful, far more beautiful
Than anything the world will ever know
Keep your eyes on the King
Cherish all of your tomorrows

You're beautiful, far more beautiful
Than anything the world will ever know
Keep your eyes on the King
May He bless all of your tomorrows
