So take the pictures off the wall
We're moving on from here
We need to get away from
Everything we don't belong here
Let the phone ring itself dry
Lets forget about tonight
Just let it fade away
We'll just fade away

These nights are wasted off by Lust, greed and ignorance
Its come that time again to Make our move, take a chance
This hourglass is draining
The coarse sand goes away
And now it's only empty
So we can start again

You don't realize I'm gone
When until you open your eyes
We see there's no turning back now
And then you see we've already died
You don't realize I'm gone
When until you open your eyes
We see there's no turning back now
And then you see we've already died

Only time will tell
If we'll make it out okay
The consequences of our choices
The prices that we pay
And only time will grant us
Chances to change
These bitter mistakes
To rewrite our fate

You don't realize I'm gone
When until you open your eyes
We see there's no turning back now
And then you see we've already died
You don't realize I'm gone

When until you open your eyes
We see there's no turning back now
And then you see we've already died

If only we had cherished
Our lives and time a little more
Things might not have happened (that way)
We might just be alive
We might not live a lie

I see the blood all over my hands as I realize what I've become
