(Becca Christel Tracey Spring Janis Carper) I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world With my head, my heart and my hand With my eyes I can see The way things are and they way they could be Hope and vision call to me Bringing life new meaning I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world With my head, my heart and my hand With my heart I can feel The ebb and flow of life revealed Pain and sorrow all will heal With love and true compassion I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world With my head, my heart and my hand With my hands and with my sweat I will do what's not done yet With tenderness and no regret Embrace the work before me I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world With my head, my heart and my hand I will not turn my head I will not close my heart I will not still my hands Until my work is done I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world I can ease the suffering of this world With my head, my heart and my hand
