The Start of the story is not where this tale begins this point in life is not a segue but in fact this is the act where the plot thickens

Never better was my answer when youd asked me how i'd been and good luck I havent seen her since I can't remember when So I try just to take it and to face it with a grin
And I try to remember thats its all in the master plan

I have my towel packed and ready I'm all set to hitch a ride I don't know my destination
But i'm sure its on the far side

(chorus)

you live, you love, you die each time you slide away still you try, and try but you know some things in life will never go your way
