I don't understand what people fuss about
Seems like they're all angry all the time
Mindin' everybody's business like it was their own
I can barely find the time for mine
I believe in love and leavin' well enough alone
You won't catch me castin' that first stone

You may not share my point of view
Or see the world the way I do
I hope that doesn't matter much to you

I don't have to be self righteous even if I'm right
Please excuse me if you think that's wrong
I've been told that I'm a sinner nearly all my life
But so is everyone I've ever known
I believe in leavin' judgment for somebody else
Someone more deserving than myself

You may not share my point of view
Or see the world the way I do
I hope that doesn't matter much to you

I think love is filled
With endless possibilities
Fools can only see
What fools can see

You may not share my point of view
Or see the world the way I do
I hope that doesn't matter much to you

You may not share my point of view
Or see the world the way I do
I hope that doesn't matter much to you
I hope that doesn't matter much to you
I hope that doesn't matter much to you
