Tired of not havin' any friends
Tired of endin' up in dead ends
Tired of people with so much sins
The life they lead must have hard bends
Tired of those people who think they know
Tired of those people, it's the hate they show
I want to get away from this fighting world
But I'm stuck here for good

Another day is here to knock me down
Another day I start it with a frown
If these are the ways I spend my days
I'll never find my way out of this maze

Tired of the criminals in the world
All those people never understood
Tired of show-off's who think they're good
All this stuff just boils my blood
Tired of things that slither down your back
Looking for trouble, it's joy I lack
I want to get away from this ugly world
But I'm stuck here for good

Another day is here to knock me down
Another day I start it with a frown
If these are the ways I spend my days
I'll never find my way out of this maze

If these are the ways I spend my days
I'll never find my way out of this maze
I don't wanna make the same mistakes
I try but failure it creates

Darkness Darkness go away
Come again another day
Darkness Darkness go away
I do not want you today

No! Please God help me
