Maybe we passed in a dimly lit hall
It could be years ago and I cannot recall
But there's something in the air
Trying to cut my breath as we stand here now

I'm missing your point but I'm catching your scent
Some Swedish rolls or some condiment
It's a natural response, the bells ring and we salivate

And we're dying for a taste
In our corners face to face

It's a physical attraction
Physical attraction, physical attraction

Maybe we shared a revolving door
In a savings bank or a department store
You were taking things back
I was coming for more when the thunder rolled

And maybe we touched on a subway train
Your voice was different but your face was the same
It went on and on in my memory as you swept by, by

And we're dying for a chance
For this spontaneous romance

It's a physical attraction
Physical attraction, a physical attraction

Maybe we passed in a dimly lit hall
It could be years ago and I cannot recall
But there's something in the air
Trying to cut my breath as we stand here now

It's a physical attraction
Physical attraction, a physical attraction

It's a, a physical attraction
A physical attraction, a physical attraction
