Here's my page for your life, now we're holding together
I've not been better, have I? I've tried to get better Now I've broadened your mind and we've learned to love all we see
When we share in the light, and the dark, and the in betweens

In another life
I get back in line
But I don't have time
To watch you walk away

With a rope and loop
And another round
I've tied you down
And pinned you to the ground

I'm not surprised you weren't so tired when you run around like a man on fire

In your life, now we're holding together I've had to fight for the right, with my weight on the pedal Will it stop you losing your mind? Now you've learned to love all you see
'Cause if we share in the light, we might fend off this emergency

In another life
I get back in line
But I don't have time
To watch you walk away

With a rope and loop
And another round
I've tied you down
And pinned you to the ground

around like a man on fire
