(Bob Wills)

When the evening falls
Twilight shadows find
There beneath the stars
An Indian maiden divine.

The moon is on high
And seems to see her there
In her eyes there's a light shining ever so bright
As she whispers a silent prayer.

Every word reveals
An empty broken heart
Broken by fate
That's keepin' them so far apart.

Lonely there she kneels
And tells the stars above
In her arms he belongs and her prayer
Is a song, her undying song of love.

Every word reveals
An empty broken heart
Broken by fate
That's keepin' them so far apart.

Lonely there she kneels
And tells the stars above
In her arms he belongs and her prayer
Is a song, her undying song of love...
