(Hank Mills)

Nights are longer when you're blue and all alone
Seems eternity will pass before the dawn
I tried everything but I can't seem to lose
All these after affects from loving you.

Now I may tell myself I'll find an easy way
To escape this misery from day to day
But my heart knows good and well it's only you
Who can ease my troubled mind and arise the pain
they find
From the after affects from loving you.

Now I may tell myself I'll find an easy way
To escape this misery from day to day
Who can ease my troubled mind and arise the pain
they find
From the after affects from loving you...
